Corn

Trends - May Contract

Short Term: Up Long Term: Down

Overnight Trade: K+3 @7:30 AM

Estimated Fund Position

Net Long Futures and Options: -266000

Change: -2000

It was a pretty wild night in a number of markets, thanks to Israels attacks on Iran, and the corn posted solid gains for awhile. The May contract stalled out at the 50-day moving average yet again, so the surge higher did nothing to change the chart pattern. Trade volume was ok, but by no means large which indicates there wasn't a lot of conviction behind the buying in the first place. We did have a large sale of corn going to Mexico announced this morning, but most of it was new crop.

Wheat

Trends - May Contract

Short Term: Up

Long Term: Down

Overnight Trade: Chicago: K +5 KC: K Flat @7:30 AM

Estimated Fund Position

Net Long Futures and Options: -94000

Change: Flat

May KW was up 15 cents at one point overnight and had move back to the upper end of the trading range. By the end of the overnight session, however, the market had given all that up. The pattern has been for alternating positive and negative closes in the wheat, so today we are due for a negative close, so the failure to hold gains fits the pattern. Plan on lower crop condition ratings Monday in the bulk of the HRW Belt, otherwise, there is no news.

Soybeans

Trends - May Contract

Short Term: Down Long Term: Down

Overnight Trade: K+2 @7:30 AM

Estimated Fund Position

Net Long Futures and Options: -141000

Change: -6000

The soybeans have avoided new contract lows, but the soybean oil did not. We had a large sale of soybeans going to unknown destinations announced this morning, but like the corn, most of it was new crop, so it won't have much, if any, positive impact on the market. The best hope for the bean oil was the strength in the crude oil overnight, but since that failed, there isn't much to work with today.

Here we go again. A retaliation from Israel in response to Iran's attack last weekend broke out last night as airstrikes by Israel were reported in the Central city of Isfahan, thought to house nuclear facilities. Other countries confirmed the attacks originated from Israel however, Israel had kept quiet about the incident into the morning hours. This sparked a rally of nearly $ 4.00 which was not necessarily immediate, taking 2 hours before peaking just above this weeks high. The trade was expecting a response from Israel as they have said all week that they would retaliate for the more than 300 drone and missile strikes last weekend. The strength did not last long however, as spot month crude oil lost all of its gains into early trade this morning. The overnight high reached more than $ 3.50 higher for the session before falling to more than 50 cents lower by this morning. Despite expecting retaliation, spot month crude oil had been under selling pressure all week thanks to ideas that international pressure would keep the conflict from escalating. By this morning, Iran indicated they had no plans for retaliation. There could be another run higher today thanks to risk of something once again occurring over the weekend, but the trade is turning focus to demand concerns rather than the tit-for-tat situation in the Middle East.

U.S. Stock Futures

The equities closed mixed as the Dow gained 22 points, the S&P lost 11, and the Nasdaq lost 81. This morning's futures are all lower with the Dow down 32, the S&P down 2, and the Nasdaq down 32. Netflix will make a big change to its earnings routine. They announced they will no longer provide quarterly membership number or average revenue per user starting next year, saying they are focused on revenue and operating margin. This news comes after they posted memberships rose 16% in the first quarter to 269.6 million well above the 264 million expected. Mortgage rates are at their highest level of the year, with the 30 year fixed rate now sitting around 7.5%. TikTok more than doubled its spending on advertisements to over $4.5 million to combat the potential US ban. TikTok has spent 2.5 million alone on television ads since March. Meta has released its free AI assistance across Whatsapp, Instagram, Facebook, and Messenger.

Stock to Watch: Paramount Global is trading up 7.57% premarket.
